

News Update

Goodbye and good luck to Ellie Rushby.

As many of you may have already heard we are sadly losing Ellie who is moving onwards and upwards to new things. May we take this opportunity to wish her every success for the future and thank her for all the hard work and dedication she has shown to GeTaHead Training during the time she has spent with us.

APPRENTICESHIP REFORMS

Apprenticeship reform in England, originally commenced in 2013. We thought we should start to help you understand the changes that are currently being implemented or that are due to be introduced throughout 2017 and beyond. The current reform is a result of the Richards Review (2012) which made a number of recommendations on simplification and on placing employers in the driving seat. In October 2013 employers groups were formed as 'Trailblazers' to design new English apprenticeship standards and assessment approaches. All new apprenticeship standards will be designed by employers, around specific occupations, and will include:

- End point assessment and a holistic element to end-point assessment
- Grading where possible with assessment that covers theoretical and practical elements
- No formal requirement for qualifications
- 'Mastery mechanism' – with a single approach to assessment against the standard
- English and Maths – ambition for GCSEs although Functional Skills is still 'appropriate'
- Minimum programme durations
- Minimum 20% off-the-job training
- Use of technology in design, delivery and assessment.

The reform forms part of broader changes to the apprenticeships system including:

- Changes to the funding rules, methodology, levy and voucher scheme.
- Creation of the Institute for Apprenticeships
- Government 3 million recruitment target in this parliament
- Legislation to protect the term apprenticeship in the Enterprise Bill.

TIMELY

GeTaHead are proud to endorse the TIMELY electronic appointment system. It include features such as online booking, automatic texting and emails, along with facilities to monitor staff performance and sales. The system is easy to use and well supported. It has seamless integration with mobile devices and has it own apps. If you are considering an electronic system we would say take a look at Timely!
